

New Integrated Customs Forms

Endicia is implementing new shipping label formats for both international and domestic (e.g. APO/FPO and U.S. Territories) shipments that require an integrated customs form. The changes come after new guidelines for customs declarations forms were published by the USPS in March 2015. The new guidelines affect any labels that feature an integrated customs form 2976, 2976-A, or the new 2976-B. Key changes occurring to these labels include:

- Picking the customs form type is no longer required. Your Endicia software will select the correct form type based on shipment parameters entered.
- All domestic and some international destinations that previously required a multi-page customs form now require only one page. More countries may be added in the future and your Endicia software will update automatically to remain compliant.
- Tracking barcode on domestic shipments now rotated 90 degrees.
- Date of mailing box will be used in place of the round date stamp.
- The comments section has been removed (please note that any comments entered will not print on the labels).
- Dimensions will now print on the label.
- New icons have been added to improve visibility for weight, signature, and acceptance scan requirements.

We strongly recommend test labels of each customs form type be printed to ensure all data entered will print correctly on the new format.
